Background

Big Girls Don't Cry : 'Poroaki Merritt-McDonald is perfectly cast as he becomes a character that helps conflict ensue as it becomes immersed in the movie's story line. I liked Merritt-McDonald's extremely on-point and vulnerable performance which helps to create a male characterisation with emotions that are paralleled to the female ones.'

Film-Book.com

Poroaki Merritt-McDonald is a rising star in New Zealand's entertainment industry, known for his powerful performances in Muru, Savage, Kairākau, The Gone and now Big Girls Don't Cry.

His breakthrough came in My Brother Mitchell, igniting a passion for storytelling that has defined his career. His role in Muru—a $5M production—resonated deeply, while Savage ($3.2M) earned global recognition at major film festivals. The Gone, a NZ-Ireland crime drama, expanded his reach through Acorn TV and Prime Video.

Beyond acting, Poroaki is the New Zealand Youth Ambassador for FestPAC 2024, dedicated to uplifting indigenous narratives. With his growing international presence, he is set to shape the future of New Zealand cinema.

Poroaki is also signed to CSM Management in Australia.
